Warsaw, 5th October 2007

Dear Sir/Madam,

On behalf of the International Centre of Biocybernetics (ICB) and Warsaw University of Technology (WUT) we have the pleasure to invite you kindly (and/or your co-workers) to attend the 95th ICB Seminar on “Advanced Research Methods of Biomechanics”, that will cover both fundamental and a variety of applied research issues like:

1. Biomechanics of Impact,
2. Sport Biomechanics,
3. Biomechanical Aspects of Implant Design, and to give a lecture at this Seminar.

The Seminar will be organised by the ICB in co-operation with the Institute of Aeronautics and Applied Mechanics, Warsaw University of Technology, Poland.

The Seminar will be held in Warsaw on 29th November through 1st December, 2007. Lecturers and participants are accommodated in the ICB building (4 Trojdena Street, 02-109 Warsaw) where the event takes place. The cost of your stay in Poland will be covered by the ICB, however we do not refund the cost of travel¹.

The ICB publishes full texts (in English) of lectures delivered on the Seminars. Lecturers are kindly asked to submit their texts (if possible) before or during the seminar (good quality copies of figures are kindly requested).

We would be very obliged for response in your nearest convenience. If you accept our invitation please send us the title and short abstract (approx. ½ page) of your lecture, information about its duration (30, 45 minutes or more), and about the period of your stay in Poland. Please note that even if you could not attend the whole period of the seminar we would be very obliged for your shorter participation and we would be able to suit the program of the seminar to your needs.

Before coming to Poland please send us the number of your flight, we will meet you at the airport.
